

Our local community of Austin, Texas and the surrounding area has a great stake in whether or not LPFM stations are allowed to take priority over the programming of KLove. The need for and listener dedication to KLove is proven in the number of people in the area that are supporting the station through monthly and yearly donations.

I commute 20 miles one way to work and then home again. As I tune into KLove I am calmed and encouraged by the music, stories, and prayers I hear there. I am a better employee, parent, friend, and wife because of the way I've grown since beginning to listen to KLove two years ago. Shouldn't that be the aim of every station on the air? To contribute to our growth as human beings? I believe it should be. Because the world has a way of beating us down, we do not need another station that is designed to conform people to what "society" says is truth. We need a station that conforms society to what is truth.

Thankyou,
